The Situation-Military and otherwise.

Since our last somewhat of the gloom that overhung the situation has passed away -and the skies are brightening beyond all our anticipations for so short a period. The ast few days have been characterized and marked by scenes and events, which are destined to exert a powerful influence upon the nation. Although we are cut off, in a measure, from communication, and have, as yet, none of the details of the glorious vic tories which have been acheived by our arms over the hosts of rebellion, enough has been made known to assure us that long and glorious strides have been taken towards the destruction of the rebellion. Vicksburg, with its entire army of 24,000 rebels, has fallen into our hands. Lee's army, which but a few days ago threatened the capital of the nation, and the loyal States, has been driven back, defeated, and, as some think, in a great measure destroyed.
